the animal and painfully wounded.

The animal made the attack so suddenly that the veterinarian was unable to save himself from injury. His side was gored and he was knocked down. The animal trampled upon him while he was down, and probably would have inflicted more serious injuries had not its owner come to the assistance of the victim.

Dr. McKeown sustained numerous bruises about his head and body. He went home unassisted, where his family physician dressed his wounds.

LUNCH AT CENTRAL HIGH.

Proceeds of Annual Function to Aid School Activities.

Pupils, teachers, "old grads" and triends of Central High School and a large number of pupils from other schools attended Central's annual lunch, held yesterday, for the benefit of athletics and other activities. The affair was held in the laarge yard at the institution. Gally colored booths, famy hats worn by the girls, large streamers and bunting, all combined to make an ever-changing color scheme. With the addition to this of laughter, shouts and plenty of good things to eat, one may get a slight idea of what the luncheon was like.

The lunch took, in part, the form of a reunion of many of the school's alumniand also brought into closer touch the former students with the present student body. Several school officials were present.
